This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

The present General Index includes the communications made to the Pathological Society of London during the thirteen years 1887 to 1899, both inclusive, and contained within Vols. XXXVIII to L. It constitutes the fourth General Index issued since the foundation of the Society. The first of these four indices was published in 1864, on the completion of Vol. XV of the 'Transactions.' The compilation of that index was undertaken by Mr. Timothy Holmes, then Surgical Secretary, and the cost of its publication was defrayed by Sir Prescott Hewett. After the lapse of ten years a second General Index was presented to the Society by the late Dr. T. B. Peacock. It contained references to the contents of Vols. XVI to XXV of the 'Transactions,' and was compiled by Mr. Wheatley, the Resident Librarian of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society. The third General Index was prepared by Mr. J. B. Bailey, whilst Librarian of the Royal College of Surgeons.

At the time of publication of the last-mentioned Index (in 1887) a hope was expressed by the Council that on the issue of the fiftieth volume, a General Index of the whole series might be appropriately made.

After mature deliberation, however, the Council concluded that the expense of such a publication (even were the labour of compilation gratuitously borne by members of the Society) would render it unadvisable; nor did they consider the need of it pressing, in view of the efficiency of the three indices already extant. The Council resolved, therefore, to publish an Index which should cover the thirteen years from 1887 to 1889, both inclusive.

The compilation of the present, fourth General Index was entrusted by the Council to Mr. S. G. Shattock.

Certain changes have been made in the method of compilation, which, it is hoped, will simplify the work of reference.

The list of Authors has been published separately at the end, in place of being intercalated, as in the previous indices, in the general work. In the General Index, however, the name of the author is inserted in every case after each communication, as heretofore.

The material has been arranged under the following sections:—General Subjects; Teratology; Comparative Pathology; Comparative Teratology; Bacteriology; Illustrations; Authors.

In all cases where any doubt might arise as to the part in which a communication should appear, it has been placed both in the list of General Subjects and the particular special section or sections concerned; or a cross-reference has been made use of.

One of the objects aimed at has been to free the Index, as far as compatible with facility of reference, from a rigidly mechanical form. Thus the several diseases of each organ are arranged not alphabetically, but in the order most commonly adopted and most familiar.

The subdivision of the Index into sections will, it is trusted, make reference more easy, whilst it has at the same time reduced the size and cost of the work. No attempt has been made to draw up a catalogue of the illustrations, as it was found that none was practicable which would with certainty ensure the discovery of what was contained in them. They have been simply printed, therefore, as they stand in each of the thirteen volumes of the Society's 'Transactions.'

A second object has been the avoidance of repetition under unnecessarily multiplied headings: diseases, e. g. of the Pylorus and Cardia are placed under the stomach only, this arrangement, of course, being notified under the heads Pylorus and Cardia.

Morbid growths, again, are not repeated under the headings of Adenoma, Chondroma, etc., but are grouped and classified under the single head of Tumours, though repeated, for obvious reasons, under the individual organs which they involve.
